medicines, and no mother or family, after becoming once aware of their highly constitive properties, would ever be without them.

They are prepared from the recipes of the most eminent physicians in the country, and can be deneated upon as being the best that can possibly be promered for the different discases for which they are designed as remedial. Their effects in many canes are almost madeal. They seem to act like a charm, narticularly in Croup—that terror of all mothers. A trial will be sufficient to convince the most skeptical of their asientishing remedial powers.

Great care should be taken to follow minutely the directions contained in the labels on the hottles.
